

Making Quality A Habit

---

Introduction

High competition means lower margins and returns for your business.

Ensuring Quality of service or product would help you stand out in such a competing environment

How does Organizational Quality Process evolve in an Organization?

Organizational Quality Process Evolution

Initiating Organizational Quality

Focus on quality typically starts with Hiring a tester in-house or outsourcing

Slowly a quality assurance team comes into form

Next is to automate testing to save time, effort and improve time to market.

Total Quality Management

Quality is made a habit by embedding quality awareness in all organizational processes

Benchmarking

Many Organizations stop going further after test automation often resulting in a lack of clear process that is repeatable to maintain consistent quality.

Organizations should utilize the momentum built due to quality focus and look for certification which ensures there is a process to bench mark, and organization will take efforts to continuously improve
